

Nasdaq Data Link MCP: Your Gateway to AI-Ready Market Data

Nasdaq Data Link MCP Server powers intelligent, data-driven agentic workflows at scale.

Accessing and integrating the data needed for AI-driven tools has traditionally been complex and time-consuming. Developers and enterprises often face fragmented systems and multiple integration points, slowing innovation.

Nasdaq Data Link MCP changes that. It's a unified interface that connects your AI agents, such as chatbots and virtual assistants, directly to Nasdaq Data Link, giving users seamless access to all your subscribed financial, economic and alternative datasets in one place. With MCP, you can help eliminate integration hurdles, accelerate development, and deliver smarter, data-powered experiences to your users.

Key Features

One connection

Connect once to Nasdaq Data Link MCP and reach the data through a single interface. No stitching across multiple endpoints needed.

Agent ready

Built for chatbots and autonomous agents using a consistent request pattern. Access market, economic, or alternative data through a single gateway.

Governance built in

Entitlements and access control enforced on every call. Reduce custom policy code and manual checks.

Designed to scale

As demand grows, reuse the same integration across multiple projects and use cases. Add new datasets without rework.

Your Benefits

Faster delivery

Fewer integrations to build and test, so your features ship quicker and move more seamlessly from prototype to production.

Lower maintenance

A single endpoint to secure, monitor, and support – less glue code and fewer custom integrations.

Operational confidence

A consistent access model that helps simplify risk and compliance reviews with clear visibility into usage and ownership.

Future ready architecture

Add new data or workflows without changing the access pattern. Standardize agents access across applications.

Ready to simplify your AI workflows?

Start integrating today and unlock the full potential of your Nasdaq data. The future of AI-driven insights starts now. Innovate smarter, move faster, and stay ahead of the competition. With Nasdaq Data Link MCP, you're not just connecting to data; you're creating a foundation for innovation that scales with your business.

